Both men were brought to the local Kings Daughters Hospital for emergency treatment and later removed to the Gulfport Kings Daughters Hospital.

The other accident occurred on last Thursday morning, New Year's Day, also on Highway 90, or the Old Spanish Trail, when Hans Richards of Mobile, Alabama, lost control of the automobile in which they were riding and it collided with a telephone pole, causing injuries to both men and completely demolishing the automobile.

Richards received cuts and bruises on the right side of his face and also on his body while Davis received a broken nose. Both men were taken to the local Kings Daughters Hospital where they received treatment and were kept overnight and discharged in the morning.

America's 25,000,000 School Children To Help In Defense

Washington, D. C.—America's 25,000,000 school children will be given an unprecedented opportunity to play a vital part in the defeat of Axis aggression through the Defense Savings Program, under plans announced by the Treasury Department.

The school program of the Defense Savings Staff will place particular emphasis upon the educational opportunities which Defense Savings afford. Through the operation of Defense Savings Stamp Booths by school children, the formation of student "information squads" to explain the aims of national defense, and through the cooperation of Parent-Teachers Associations, this program will enable parents, teachers and children to translate materials of the school room into tangible activity in behalf of a great cause.

A detailed outline setting forth various ways by which children can cooperate is contained in a new bulletin, "Sharing America," now being distributed to all educational institutions. Prepared by the Treasury Department in consultation with the United States Office of Education, the bulletin already is receiving enthusiastic comment from educators.

The basic theme of the educational program is to teach children why they are being asked to buy Defense Savings Stamps through incorporating Defense Savings philosophy into classroom instruction. The bulletin, "Sharing America," is intended to help teachers and others to introduce the subject in a truly educational manner.

"Sharing America," said Dr. John Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, "is certain to find favor with school officials and teachers who are eager to do everything they can to help America win the war. The program is outlined in this publication, to educate children in the United States an opportunity to participate in an important way in the defense of this country."

COUNTY FARMERS AIDED

To Receive Financial Aid For 1942 Crop Production

Mr. James H. Craig, Field Supervisor for the Memphis Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office, stated that farmers of Hancock County may now apply for Emergency Crop Loans to finance the production of 1942 crops. Applications are being received at Bay St. Louis, county agent's office, each Tuesday morning and Picayune, county agent's office, city hall, every day of the week except Fridays.

Emergency Crop loans are made to small farmers, either owners or tenants, who have land to farm, who have implements and workstock or power to farm with, who need funds to meet production costs, and who are unable to obtain loans on reasonable terms from any other source, or from production credit associations. Such loans are made in amounts commensurate with an applicant's actual cash needs, in producing his 1942 crops, are secured by a first mortgage on the crops financed, and bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum.

In addition to crop loans, Emergency Feed Loans, to finance the purchase and production of feed, are made to those small farmers who are maintaining livestock to be fed for the market, as breeding animals with the increase to be marketed, or for the production of dairy products, wool, etc. The same rules of eligibility and the same requirements govern the consideration of feed loan applications, except that such loans must be secured by a first mortgage on the stock fed.

All farmers who apply for Emergency Crop and Feed Loans will be urged to plant and cultivate crops, both for sale and for farm or home use, according to the Farm Defense Program sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture. Eligible farmers can receive loans based on both their usual operating expenses and their expenses incident to complying with the Defense Program. All applicants will be required to plant home gardens and to produce sufficient food for their workstock and subsistence animals.

Emergency Crop and Feed Loans are available to all farmers who can establish eligibility according to the terms of the loan regulations and authorizing Act—the loans are not restricted to selected applicants. Prior indebtedness will not prevent favorable consideration of an otherwise eligible applicant's request, provided non-payment was due to reasons beyond the debtor's control. A portion of the loan proceeds, sufficient to meet minimum present needs, may be disbursed immediately upon approval of an application, with the bulk of the loan being withheld until crop time.

RED CROSS MEETING

The annual Red Cross meeting will be held at the Courthouse, Tuesday, January 20th, the hour to be announced later.

A crowd of more than one hundred persons gathered at Hotel Reed on Monday evening promptly at seven o'clock to register and join the course in First Aid in connection with the National Defense program which is being conducted by a representative of the American Red Cross sent down here for this purpose.

Mr. Russell explained the purpose of the gathering and stated preparation had been made for between forty-five and fifty persons and the response had been extremely gratifying. However, as the sun parlor of the Reed Hotel was not large enough to accommodate a crowd or permit of proper training because of lack of space, it was decided to transfer the class to the Auditorium of St. Joseph Academy where lessons were given after Monday night. The classes, it was explained, would begin each evening at seven o'clock and last until ten o'clock and would last two weeks, with Saturday and Sunday evenings excepted, in order that everyone attending would be enabled to put in the required thirty hours which are necessary before anyone is awarded an instructor's certificate.

Gaines Kergosien offered his services and served as a model for demonstration purposes.
The first aid course is one that is extremely important, especially in air raids, when so much disaster is wrought and so many lives possible to be saved by correct first aid which prevents bleeding to death or the proper removal of persons to safety until the arrival of ambulance.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Gorisse Injured In Automobile Accident

News has reached Bay St. Louis of an automobile accident occurring in Ridgeland, South Carolina, in which Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Gorisse of Pawling, New York, were injured, while en route to Sea Island Beach, Georgia, to spend Christmas, both being taken to Emily Rittler Hospital in Ridgeland.

Mrs. Gorisse is the former Miss Edna Brandao of this city and well known here. Her injuries consisted of a broken pelvis, broken jaw bone and broken elbow bone and her husband suffered a broken leg; however, latest news is to the effect that both are recovering but are still in the hospital.

Immediately upon receipt of news of the accident, Mrs. Ethel Brandao and her sister left by plane for Ridgeland, S. C., to be with their sister and brother-in-law.

City Deserted On New Year's Day Despite Bad Weather

Bay St. Louis was a deserted city on New Year's Day despite the inclement weather and almost perpetual downpour with a regular exodus of its many football fans who motored to New Orleans to attend the Fordham-Missouri football classic in the Sugar Bowl which attracted seventy-two thousand people.

The Fordham team and the entire personnel which were housed at Reed Hotel for their stay here were lavishly entertained by a number of private parties including a dinner, boat ride and several egg-nog parties given at the homes of different people here and as happens each year, Bay St. Louis is as interested in the outcome of the game as if they were one of our own school teams as everyone becomes so well acquainted with these husky lads, that their victory over the opposing team is paramount in the minds of the people here and we were jubilant over the outcome of this year's Sugar Bowl game.

Former Bay Pastor In Automobile Accident

The Rev. Robert Grubb, former pastor of Christ Episcopal church here and at present serving as pastor of the Episcopal Church in Mississippi City, narrowly escaped serious injury when the automobile in which he was riding, overturned on a road near Mississippi City when a tire blew out. However, Mr. Grubb was taken to the Kings Daughters Hospital at Gulfport by a passing motorist and received first aid treatment, and was permitted to go to his home after his injuries were pronounced not serious.

Slash in automobile output will cost 200,000 jobs, plants report.

RED CROSS FIRST AID COURSE FOR INSTRUCTORS

EXCEPTIONAL interest has been shown in the Red Cross First Aid Course for instructors being held this week and next and being given by an official representative from Washington.

More than one hundred persons have registered for the course, and have planned to put in the necessary thirty-hours which will classify them as registered instructors.

The first aid course is extremely important, especially in case of air raids, when so much disaster is wrought as well as in case of any local disaster. These instructors will be qualified to instruct other classes in future.

LEGISLATURE NOW IN SESSION

THE Legislature is convening on Tuesday of this week; both houses being already organized, except the election of a clerk in the House, but little time will be lost in getting down to work. For the past several weeks members of both houses, and many other public leaders, have been vigorously advocating a short session, some suggesting six weeks and others eight weeks, at most. There has also been some discussion, pro and con, about the manner in which the surplus of more than three million dollars should be disposed of by the lawmakers. Some argue that the surplus should be conserved and saved for the future, while others contend that it should be used now for causes which need more support, such as education, old-age assistance, better hospital facilities for the poor, and a state building to meet the imperative needs for more space, and thereby save from fifty to sixty thousand dollars now being paid out each year in rent to provide necessary working quarters for state officials and state activities.

RUBBER RESTRICTIONS HURT MANY

THE war comes closer home to millions of Americans with the order prohibiting the sale of automobile tires to almost everybody.

While the United States has acquired a stockpile of crude rubber to meet basic war needs for more than a year, there is not enough for unrestricted civilian consumption. Meanwhile, the Japanese have apparently gained control of certain Malayan areas on which American-owned plantations are situated and their naval superiority in the Far East threatens the supply lines that connect us with ninety-five per cent of the world's crude rubber supply.

It is interesting to observe, in connection with this situation, that if the defenders of the Far East apply the "scorched earth policy" to the rubber plantations it will require between ten and fifteen years to again provide sufficient crude rubber for the normal needs of the world. This might mean, according to P. W. Litchfield, executive of a rubber company, that our way of life might be changed as a result of the war.

THE QUARTERMASTER'S TASK

THE war in Libya is a paradise for a tactician, but hell for the quartermaster," remarked Nazi General Ravenstein who was captured in Libya. In fact, all modern war with strategy wrapped up in extensive movements is "hell for the quartermaster" whose job it is to furnish supplies to even the most advanced mechanized force.

In an editorial in the Army Times on December 6th, the task of the United States is compared with the task of the quartermaster. Our quartermaster problems include getting supplies to Russians, Britains, Chinese, and our own fighting force. Thus America itself has become a huge quartermaster depot.

"Tough guys, these quartermasters—fighting men!"

OLD OFFICERS NEEDED

THE War Department is now seeking information relative to the present address and the civilian skill of World War officers and former Regular Army officers who are not now connected with the military establishment but who desire to volunteer for service.

Generally speaking, this group is too old for service with combat units, but they are needed for administrative positions and in the greatly expanding training set-up.

Those who desire to offer their services should write to the Adjutant General of the Army at Washington and request a veteran officers' questionnaire.

1942 is just another "leap" year to the average pedestrian.

Advertising is an old custom that is observed by most of our successful businessmen.

Well folks, the automobiles of the land killed their quota of citizens every month during 1941. The price of speed is a bit out of proportion, we think.

Do without something every week during 1942 and put the savings into defense stamps or bonds.

This is the time for all subscribers whose accounts are in arrears to come to the aid of The Echo.

THE COMMON COLD

Recent research at the University of Pennsylvania has discounted the belief that infections cannot be carried by air. Now we know that the causative agents of a number of diseases including the common cold influenza, pneumonia, measles, mumps, and chicken pox can remain suspended in air for an indefinite period.

Science tells us now that we can catch a cold by entering a room in which someone with a cold has been that it is not necessary for us to be in the room at the same time as the one infected.

During epidemics, then, it is very easy to catch a cold, for example, by going to any crowded place such as schools, churches, and moving pictures. Because in these places the causative agents are suspended in the air, and thus it is not necessary for one to sit next to an infected person to contract the disease. At school, for example, it would be possible for a pupil to catch a cold from the janitor who cleaned up the room.

Research workers have also been working to discover a way of killing these little devils that lurk in the air. In fact, it has been discovered that ultra-violet lamp rays kill or inactivate the bacteria in the air.

Ultra violet lamps are similar to sun lamps; however, they radiate rays of shorter wave lengths. One of these lamps in a room will not only kill bacteria in its focus but by means of circulation caused by the warm air rising purify the whole room. These lamps are now made available to the public by three manufacturers; they are priced between $10 and $40. Due to the fact that they hurt the eye, they must be used as indirect lamps.

Experiments in schools, hospitals, etc., have proved this experiment to be one of the most remarkable advances in recent medical history. In fact, experiments have even proven that ultra violet rays may even be built into an air conditioning system.

In the future we may expect many to sleep in rooms equipped with these special lamps; we may expect all public buildings to be equipped with them; and they will be essential equipment of every hospital.

VAST PRODUCTION AHEAD

THE backbone of the industrial age is made up of machine tools and mass production depends upon the manufacture of these important units before the production line begins to turn out the desired units.

In connection with the mammoth industrial effort now being organized in the United States, Barnham Finney, editor of The American Machinist, points out that machine tools will be turned out in the United States at the rate of more than 1200 units a day in 1942.

In a normal year, machine tool builders enjoyed a business of around $100,000,000 but gradually the output has increased. In 1940, the industry delivered $442,000,000 worth of machine tools and, in 1941, shipments soared to more than $750,000,000 worth.

In 1942, according to Mr. Finney, more than 1 billion worth of machine tools will be produced. This means that mass production methods will be expanded to additional industrial plants and that the production of necessary ordnance, tanks, planes, ships and other materials of war will reach almost unimaginable proportions by 1943.

MEXICO PROVES A FRIEND

IN the rush of more important events, the people of the United States have, to some extent, overlooked the action of Mexico and other Central American countries in coming to the support of this country in the present world crisis.

It is interesting to observe that Mexico recently severed diplomatic relations with Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary and that the Foreign Ministry, in its announcement, said that the action was taken because these countries had declared war on the United States.

Not many years ago it was the common belief among many responsible officials of this country that, in the event of war, Japan would promptly establish bases on the west coast of Mexico and it was believed possible that the Mexican might passively permit such action against the United States. This opinion flourished during the strained diplomatic relations which existed between the United States and Mexico but today, thanks to an enlightened policy of forbearance, the United States is happy to be able to count Mexico among its good friends and to rely upon the Mexicans to assist in the necessary steps to protect Mexico territory from being used by the enemies of the United States.

A CONGREGATION UNDERSTANDS

THE First Baptist Church of Sullivan, Ind., with $1,083.85 in its building and organ fund, recently voted to invest the money in defense bonds.

The pastor of the church explains that, "if we win the war, eventually we can buy an organ and build a new building. But if the American form of government cannot survive this crisis, we won't need churches or organs."

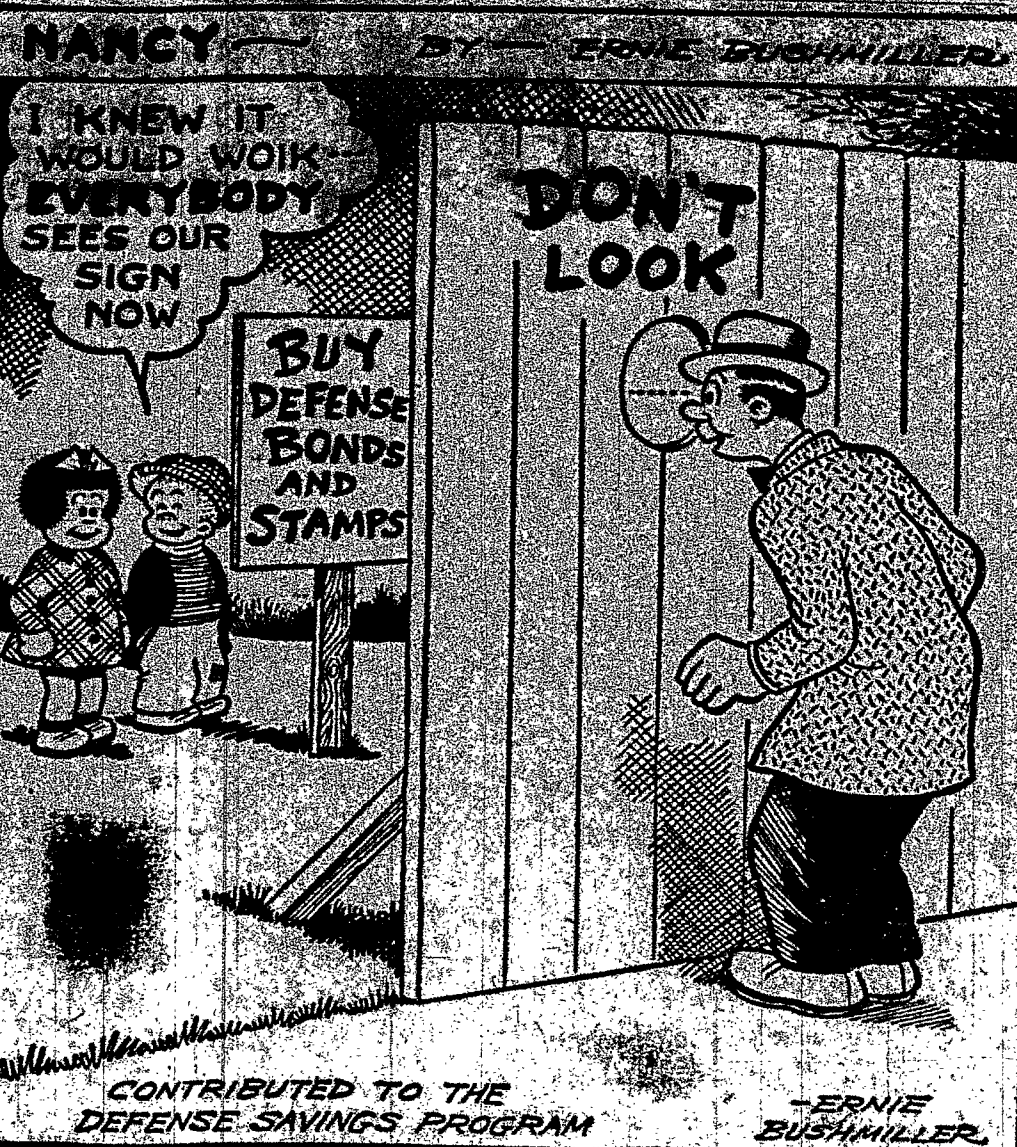

Evidently, the Rev. C. B. Atkinson and his congregation have gotten over the idea that life and business in the United States can proceed as normally. Apparently, they understand that the time has come for all Americans to support the Government in its fight against the enemies of freedom and what we consider to be the proper religion.

SUGAR HOARDERS

DURING the fifteen day period beginning on the Monday following the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, a month's supply of sugar was bought by the American buying public.

In other words, for every five pounds of sugar that was bought to feed us Americans, another five pounds of sugar was bought to hoard.

A small group of buyers who anticipated a shortage of sugar bought up large supplies so that they would not have to suffer with their fellow Americans if a shortage should come. To us, this group of hoarders was not only unpatriotic, the attempt to escape its share of sacrifice, but also out of harmony with the American spirit.

Hollywood Echoes.

HOLLYWOOD will contribute its share to national defense. It is estimated that from twenty-five to thirty-five per cent of the present manpower of the studios is subject to call in one or another form of military service.

Mickey Rooney, just turned 21, is, of course, subject to the draft. However, from all prospects, Mickey will take unto himself a wife before this happens. The love-bug seems to have bitten—this time it is Miss Ava Gardner—with whom Mickey says he fell in love "at first sight."

Rumor has it that all "B" pictures have been cancelled and that all pictures made henceforth must be strong enough to stand alone on any exhibitor's program. Somewhere, seems like, we have heard this before.

While visiting in New York, Abner Biberman received a rush call from Hollywood. He did, via the air, and rushed to the studio—where he was measured for a hat. He was not called for his part in the picture until two weeks later.

Deanna Durbin has accepted an invitation to fly to England where she will spend four weeks singing for troops and war workers all over the British Isles.

After dieting for a year and working hard also, Gene Tierney was delighted to lose twelve pounds. However she has learned that she must gain them all back for her role in "Sons of Fury," in which she appears in a sarong, because streamlining and sarongs just don't mix.

Claudette Colbert will wear two different wedding gowns in her next film, "The Palm Beach Story," in which she appears with Joel McCrea. Since wedding gowns never look old-fashioned, both will be glamorous.

Gracie Allen is being kept very busy working these days. She spends all day Tuesday at the radio station and the rest of the week she works on her current film, "Mr. and Mrs. George Burns," her husband, is delighted, though, because he says when she's busy she can't go shopping, which she dearly loves to do.

Brian Donlevy is the owner of four mining properties on which there are "defense ores" in which the government is interested.

The film, "Sing Your Worries Away," demanded an orange grove with ripe fruit. Since most oranges at this time of the year, in California,

Part Of Duties Of Quartermaster Corps

Atlanta, Ga., January 6—A soldier can travel the length and breadth of the country without a cent of cash under a new plan recently adopted by the Quartermaster Corps.

The plan, through the issuance of meal tickets to small groups of individuals, insures the soldiers plenty of food while traveling as each ticket is good for $1.00 per meal in dining cars and 75 cents in restaurants.

The tickets are issued by the Quartermaster of the post or camp at which the soldier is stationed and specifies the route and destination of the travel.

"On several occasions restaurant operators have refused to accept the tickets," Brigadier General James L. Frink, Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster, said here today. "It should be understood that the tickets are as good as money. They will be cashed by the Finance Officer named on the ticket when mailed to him."

This new plan takes the place of the old system of giving soldiers money with which to buy food while traveling and insures that the soldiers will be well fed as the tickets can not be exchanged for anything except food.

FOOD COST

Except for cereals, bakery products and meat, the cost of all important groups of food advanced during the month ending November 18th, in fact, retail food costs advanced 1.3 per cent, between October 14 and November 18.

Apples, green, three men worked all night painting the fruit a rich orange. The water-color they used can be washed off easily.

THE STATE HEALTH OFFICER SAYS

Advice on nutrition, suggestions on building up resistance to disease, warnings against illness hazards, and safety admonitions require individual cooperation if the effects are to be satisfactory. It is true that in the mass aspects of public health the activities of health officials can continue to be relied upon. Thus, safe water and milk supplies, protected sewage disposal facilities and other environmental sanitation factors in cities and the larger towns can be handled satisfactorily even though the public as individuals, be disinterested. However, these features, though affecting thousands, are comparatively limited and the personal health problem remains.

Ten employees of the Office of Price Administration are now in the field setting up the machinery for the organization of local fire-rationing boards. The rationing plan went into effect January 5.

"WEEK-END IN HAVANA" CATCHY FILM MUSICAL AT A. & G.

Beautiful Havana Is Locale Of Gay, New Musical Film.

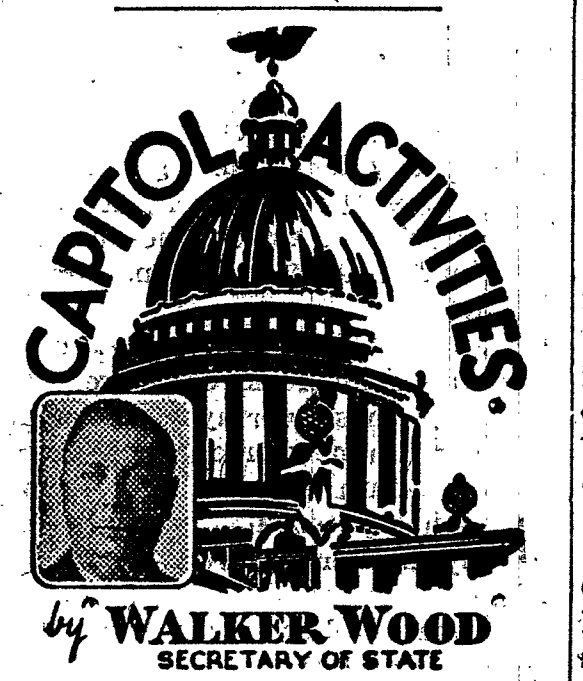

It will be a trip to Havana for the audience at the A. & G. Theater Sunday and Monday nights. The first showing of 20th Century-Fox's new Technicolor musical, "Week-End in Havana," has all the thrills, excitement and romance of an actual visit to the pleasure city of the Caribbean. Superb performances by Alice Faye, Carmen Miranda, John Payne and Cesar Romero against a background of magnificent Technicolor scenes of beautiful Havana—outdoors and in its night clubs—combine to make this the most musical film of the season.

The clever story has Alice, a salesgirl, on a vacation cruise to Havana. When her ship is grounded on a reef, she insists on her vacation—with all the luxury and romance she had dreamed of for years. So she is taken to Havana, and sets out to have her glorious week-end.

Alice and John Payne sing of romance under semi-tropical skies and La Miranda sings and dances to five new tunes by Mark Gordon and Harry Warren.

Excellent support is given by the balance of the cast which features Cobina Wright, Jr., George Barbier, Sheldon Leonard, Leonid Kinskey, Chris-Pin Martin and Billy Gilbert. Director Walter Lang has kept the action moving at a steady pace, and the amusing original screen play by Karl Tunberg and Darrell Ware had many unusual situations. William LeBaron was the producer.

For the tops in romantic musical comedy see "Week-End in Havana."

THE total amount of taxes collected for the State through the State Tax Commission in the year 1941 exceeded 18 million dollars, or more than four million above the sum collected from the same sources in 1940. The huge sum was collected from the following sources: Sales tax, $9,552,184; income, $3,254,113; tobacco, $2,091,687; beer and wine, $1,180,645; amusement, $511,352; franchise, $457,519; state-wide privilege, $534,517; chain stores, $51,995; Dollar License fee, $4,044; inheritance, $65,497; installment loan, $11,672; slot machine, $68,095; timber severance, $310,708. These figures give the returns on the 13 taxes collected by the Tax Commission for the year 1941.

State Bank Comptroller S. L. McLaurin has fixed the rate of interest to be paid by banks on savings accounts for the year 1942. The rate announced by Mr. McLaurin for savings accounts is one and one half percent per annum on amounts not exceeding $1,000, no interest shall be paid on the amount above one thousand dollars. Time deposits may draw interest at the rate of one and one half percent per annum, provided the deposit is not withdrawn in less than six months.

State Highway Director, E. D. Kenna, has received word from Washington that the state of Mississippi is soon to receive an allotment of more than two million dollars to be used in highway construction, when the state meets certain conditions for matching the funds. Of the federal funds $344,000 will be earmarked for improving grade crossings and reducing the hazard to travelers.

The cotton quota for 1942, submitted to a vote of the cotton farmers on December 13th, was carried by a large majority. The supply of American cotton now on hand is about 23,800 bales, which is a normal supply for two years. Cotton ginned in Mississippi from the 1941 crop up to December 13th was 1,334,317 bales.

Frank F. Mize, Motor Vehicle Commissioner announces that from gasoline cars and trucks, $18,000,000 went into the coffers of the state in taxes during the calendar year of 1941. This is an all-time high for tax collections from that source.

Hon. R. D. Moore, former state land commissioner, died at his home in Jackson last week after an illness of one week. Mr. Moore was 84 years of age and had been connected with the land office for more than 20 years. He was a native of Amite county, where he was a leading citizen and a prosperous farmer before moving to Jackson to become Land Commissioner.

In the year 1941 Mississippi had no elections except some special but in 1942 it will be different. The 17 circuit judges, and 11 chancery judges, seven members of congress and one United States Senator are to be elected during the year.

The record shows that, with the beginning of 1942 Mississippi has 118 producing oil wells in four fields—

PERHAPS the most far-reaching legislative assembly in American history expired on January 2, 1942, when the first session of the Seventy-seventh Congress adjourned sine die. It is the session of Congress which accepted the challenge of the Axis Powers in World War II, and voted the President the necessary powers for immediate prosecution of war with funds of ten and one-half billion dollars to execute these powers. The new, or second session, of the Seventy-seventh Congress will convene on January 5th, and the problems which this session will have to face will, of course, be manifold.

Meeting the Rubber Problem

The banning of the sale of automobile tires has brought home most forcibly the problems and inconveniences to be encountered by the rubber shortage. The Office of Emergency Management has listed the following methods of meeting the problems created by the loss—due to Japanese aggression in British Malaya and the Netherlands Indies—of more than 600,000 tons of rubber imported annually by the United States: (1) Encourage by all possible means the gathering of wild rubber in the Amazon region of South America; (2) Embark on a large-scale growing program of guayule, rubber-bearing shrub of northern Mexico and southwestern United States; (3) Encourage rapidly the production of synthetic rubber.

Crude rubber from Brazil amounts at present to not more than 15,000 tons a year. Large amounts of satisfactory rubber can be produced in the United States and Mexico from guayule, but no large scale production is possible before 1947, according to the OEM. Production of synthetic rubber, therefore, promises the only immediate results. There are four plants now under construction for the production of synthetic rubber which are expected to turn out some 40,000 tons annually of general-purpose synthetic rubber, and current plans are being made to triple this amount. In addition to this, the United States expects to manufacture approximately 2,000 tons of neoprene and other special types of synthetic rubber this year, which will largely be used for war equipment. Rubber is now being reclaimed at the rate of 270,000 tons per year, and it has been estimated that approximately 500,000 tons of scrap rubber will be collected annually for a time.

Indemnities For Kin of Casualties

President Roosevelt has signed a bill to permit payment of indemnities up to $50,000 to survivors of service men killed in the attack on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. This bill also covers injuries and deaths on the destroyers Kearny and Ruben James. The measure permits pensions to be paid at full rate for death or injury as a direct result of armed conflict—although the nation was not in war at the time the injury or death occurred—and for deaths and injuries while on maneuvers.

Maritime Cadet Training Intensified

The U. S. Maritime Commission announced that for the duration of the war Maritime Commission Cadets will not be required to take competitive examinations for appointments, although high school records showing at least 12 units must be submitted at the time application is filed. The Commission said that 22 months—about half the time ordinarily required—will be accepted as qualification for Third Officer or Third Assistant Engineer license examination during the emergency. Of the 22 months training, the Commission said, two months is spent in preliminary training and basic Naval science ashore, then ten months aboard merchant ships, with the final ten months at Cadet School in advanced work. Upon completion of these courses, cadet-engineers are eligible for license as engineer officers in both steam and diesel vessels, and deck cadets as ship officers.

Sons of Italy Pledge to Buy $10,000 Bonds of Defense Bonds

though the Tinsley field has 312 of the total number of wells and eight new tests are being drilled at this time. Total production in the state in 1941 was substantially 15 million barrels and oil men believe that unless something happens to restrict production that the 1942 total will be around 30 million barrels. That will mean around 30 million dollars income from that source.

Officials of the Jackson Carpenters Union, Local No. 1471, last week bought National Defense Bonds amounting to $20,000. This was taken out of money being saved up to build a labor temple in Jackson.

MAE WEST AND W. C. FIELDS TEAMED IN COMEDY SMASH

"My Little Chickadee" With Swell Cast at Orthe Theater Sunday

Mae West and W. C. Fields, two of the most celebrated figures in the entertainment world, comes to the Orthe Theater Sunday and Monday in their new starring picture, Universal's "My Little Chickadee."

Heralded as one of the outstanding screen combinations of all time, the curvaceous actress and the flaming nosed funster blend their colorful personalities in a rip-snorting comedy of frontier days. The story is said to be alive with roarin' action played against a background of romance, skullduggery and music. Mae is seen as a glamorous big-city belle who stirs up a mess of trouble when the boys of the wild and woolly frontier start to love her. Affectionately, "the stage" is Fields as a medicine man and card sharp, who is completely captivated by Mae and strives throughout the film to claim her for his very own.

One of the strongest supporting casts of the year was assembled for the production. A partial list of players includes such favorites as Joseph Calleia, Dick Foran, Donald Meek, Gene Austin with Candy and Coco, Anne Nagel, Margaret Hamilton and Ruth Donnelly.

In the film Mae West sings "Willie of the Valley," a new number written especially for her. Edward Cline, who has piloted some of Hollywood's most successful laugh hits, and who was once a member of famous Keystone Cops of Mack Sennett days, directed the film. Lester Cowan was the producer and Joseph Valentine, noted for his camera work on all of Deanna Durbin's films, did the photography.

STARS IN THE SPOTLIGHT!

BY ETHEL VINE

Frank Morgan, who is sometimes called "Hollywood's 'Old Faithful'" because he has played just about every kind of role on the screen, appears in his latest picture, "The Vanishing Virginian," as Captain Robert Yancy, a tall, dark figure in a Virginia town. Morgan's versatility has a range not many other character actors can touch, for he is able to play with equal skill and conviction an amiable drunk, one grave, serious type, such as his portrayal of the professor in "The Mortal Storm."

Turns to Theatre
The actor has literally hundreds of characterizations behind him on both stage and screen, for he began his highly successful career as a youth of twenty on Broadway in "Mr. Wu." Partly because his brother Ralph, who is now also one of Hollywood's ranking players, was on the stage, and partly because he was bored with the various business ventures he had tried, Morgan turned to the theatre.

His natural aptitude for acting became apparent and roles followed one another in rapid succession, in such hits as "Rosalie," "The Man Who Came Back," "Seventh Heaven," "The Firebrand," "Lullaby" and many others. It was in these widely different parts, in which he played everything from heavies to comics, as well as straight dramatic leads, that he gained the craftsmanship and awareness of touch which marks his work on the screen.

Begins Screen Work
In his later plays on Broadway, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "The Band Wagon" and "Topaze," he established himself as one of America's leading actors. It was during the early production of films in the East that Morgan first began his screen work. His first talking picture was a short called "Belle of the Night." But this early phase of his film career was interrupted by his return to the theatre, with which he remained until 1932 when he came to Hollywood to play in "Dangerous Dan McGrew." Countless pictures have followed. Among them have been "Rumors in Vienna," "Naughty Marietta," "The Great Ziegfeld," "The Wizard of Oz," "Merry Widow" and many, many more.

Correll Student
Morgan was born in New York City, a son of the Wupperman family of ancestors of the Corrells. He attended Correll for two years and then spent a winter in New Mexico cow-punching. Returning East, he tried being a business for a time, among other business ventures, before going on to the stage.

WHEN THE WAR ENDS

The first two terms of President Roosevelt gave the American people many important reforms and much social legislation for the benefit of the vast majority of citizens.

During these years of bitter political fighting over the so-called "New Deal" many of our industrialists, business leaders and financiers, and a number of college executives and preachers, were conspicuous in their opposition to proposed legislation and self-revealing in expressing their personal dislike for the President.

Now that war has come, the republic, the established status quo may be accepted for the duration. Business, with huge war contracts, will be satisfied, and small-time money changers will remain quiescent. In time, however, if the opportunity arises, there will be an effort to sabotage the gains of the New Deal.

It is important that the people remain politically alert and intelligently prepared for the domestic battle that is certain to come when the war ends, if not before.
